

VIRGINIA BANKERS WILL MEET AT OLD POINT

Annual Convention Opens Wednesday With Interesting Program of Addresses.

FACING DIFFICULT PROBLEMS

Distinguished Speakers Will Lead Discussions—Election of Officers Takes Place Saturday—Banquet on Friday Night.

Many prominent speakers are on the program for addresses during the twenty-second annual convention of the Virginia Bankers' Association, which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at Hotel Chamberlin, Old Point Comfort. The session will be one of the most important held by the organization, for never before in the history of the country has a generation been confronted with problems of such import to the financial destiny of the people and its institutions. The workings of the new Federal reserve system, the effect of the European war upon the financial situation in America, the necessity for co-operation between the banks and the farmer are among topics of interest.

The conventions of the Virginia Bankers' Association have been growing in importance from year to year, and the 1916 meeting is expected to keep pace with the progressive spirit of the organization's work. With this end in view the officers have selected a number of especially strong speakers, presenting most interesting business sessions.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS

HAVE PLACE ON PROGRAM

Among those who will make addresses are John Burke, treasurer of the United States; William P. Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal; Dr. Bradford Knapp, of the United States Department of Agriculture; Warren M. Goddard, of Richmond; C. L. King, of Petersburg; Herbert W. Jackson, of Richmond; Colonel Thomas Branch McAdams, Richmond; Norman H. Williams, Chase City; William Ingle, agent of the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond; and T. M. Carrington, of Richmond.

Reports received by Walker Scott, of Farmville, secretary of the association, indicate that there will be from 350 to 400 bankers in attendance at the convention. Mr. Scott will be at Hotel Chamberlin Wednesday, and will establish headquarters in Room M for the registration of delegates.

IMPORTANT COMMITTEE

REPORTS TO BE CONSIDERED

Thursday morning W. B. West, of Newport News, president of the association, will deliver his annual address, and other officers as well as group of chairmen will submit their reports. Among the reports which will be of unusual importance are those of George Bryan, of Richmond, president of the Virginia Bankers' Association; Oliver J. Sands, chairman of the taxation committee; and V. Valden, of Farmville, chairman of the committee on agricultural and financial development.

Secretary Scott has arranged for abundant entertainment during the convention. Thursday afternoon the Fort Monroe Band will give a concert, and the same night the bankers and their families will be taken on a moonlight sail to the Virginia Capes. The annual banquet, always a brilliant feature, is scheduled for Friday night in the ballroom of the Hotel Chamberlin. Addresses will be made by Dr. C. L. King, of University of Virginia; William E. Know, comptroller of the Bowery Savings Bank, New York; John R. Bland, president of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Baltimore; and Rev. Edwin T. Wellford, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Newport News.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

TAKES PLACE SATURDAY

Saturday morning the annual election of officers will take place, and the sessions of the convention will close that day.

A call has been issued for a meeting of the executive council at 10 o'clock Wednesday night at Hotel Chamberlin. Immediately following the adjournment of the first morning's session, members of the American Bankers' Association will meet to elect a vice-president of that organization for Virginia, and a member of the general nomination committee for the convention which will be held in Seattle.

COAT FROM JACKSON'S COAT PLACED IN MUSEUM

Was Preserved by Dr. S. B. Morrison, Who Attended at General's Deathbed.

RECORD IN WARREN TRIAL

Museum Receives From General Munford What Is Believed to Be Only Copy of Record in Famous Court-Martial.

R. E. Lee Camp No. 1, United Confederate Veterans, has been presented with a button taken from the military coat which General T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson was wearing at the time he received his mortal wound at the battle of Chancellorsville in 1863. The button was presented to the camp Friday night by Past Commander John Murphy on behalf of William A. Miller, of York, Pa., a Virginian and a member of a prominent Rockbridge County family. His wife was a daughter of Dr. John McCleskey, of Augusta County.

The button was removed from General Jackson's coat after his death by Dr. S. B. Morrison, one of the physicians at the Confederate commander's bedside. A letter from Dr. Morrison to Mr. Miller, dated August 16, 1899, presented with the button, says: "I cut out the button from General Jackson's bloody mutilated coat after his death. I gave the button to your father. I was with General Jackson as one of his physicians until Sunday morning, when he died."

COAT IS PLACED IN MUSEUM

There is also an affidavit from William A. Miller, who is a son of Rev. J. O. Miller, a native of Woodstock, Va. On motion of Lieutenant-Commander John Lamb, the relic was ordered sent to the Confederate Memorial Literary Society to be placed in the Confederate Museum. Mr. Miller was presented to the camp and made a brief address, expressing his gratification that the relic has found its proper place for preservation.

General Thomas T. Munford, of Lynchburg, responded to calls for a few remarks. He stated that the relic in the trial of General G. K. Warren, a Federal officer during the War Between the States, had been deposited in the Confederate Museum. He told the veterans that they would find many facts of interest in the volume, which is believed to be the only one now in existence. General Warren was removed as commander of the Fifth Army Corps in the Army of the Potomac.

RECORDS WERE DESTROYED

By ORDER OF WAR DEPARTMENT. He was charged with disobeying orders, but his friends insisted that he was the victim of intrigue. Fifteen years after the war Warren was vindicated.

NEW TRIAL IS GRANTED IN WHITE SLAVE CASE

Circuit Court of Appeals Grants Appeal to Eugene L. Younger.

SAYS LOWER COURT ERRED

Did Not Give Accused Time in Which to Summon Witnesses for Defense, and Refused His Request for Continuance.

Eugene L. Younger, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who was sentenced last November by the United States District Court, at Philippi, to three years in the Federal penitentiary for violation of the Man white slave act, was yesterday granted a new trial by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The court held that the lower court committed a prejudicial error in not granting the defendant a continuance of trial on the grounds that he had not been advised of the time and place of trial in time to locate and summon material witnesses for the defense, and that the court refused to postpone the trial after government witnesses were examined, as was requested by the prisoner.

Younger was indicted by the grand jury of the District Court of Clarksburg, and the case set for trial in that court. Later, it was for some reason removed to Philippi, and called for trial in that court on November 12. The defendant asked for a continuance on the ground that his witnesses were scattered in three States, and that within the short time given him to prepare for trial he had been unable to locate them and have them summoned. His plea was overruled and the case was gone into with the woman and her mother as witnesses for the government and the defendant as the only witness for the defense.

DID NOT HAVE TIME TO SUMMON WITNESSES

During the progress of the trial, at the conclusion of the testimony for the government, the defendant advised the court, through his attorney, that he had been endeavoring all day to get two witnesses from Parkersburg and thought he could get them by the next morning, asking that further hearing be postponed until that time. This the court refused to do, and closed the case with the evidence already before it. The defendant was sentenced and noted an appeal.

M. & M. $2,000 CONTEST IMPORTANT NOTICE

The following organizations have arranged for special voting days at Contest Headquarters:

Monday, Venable Street Baptist Church; Tuesday, Fairmount Methodist Church; Wednesday, Nurses' Settlement; Thursday, L. H. Cosby's Sunday School Class.

Each lady attending Contest Headquarters on the above days and registering will be given 300 votes, each gentleman 100 votes and each child 50 votes. Contestants and friends who would like to see these organizations win the $1,000 in cash should make it a point to drop in at Contest Headquarters and register for them.

Special attention is called to the combinations which appeared in last Sunday's Times-Dispatch, which expires Wednesday, June 16, at 1 P. M. If you have not made up one or more of these combinations for your favorite organization or contestant, you should do so at once, as this is one of the best ways to help your candidate win these prizes. A new set of combinations will appear in Thursday morning's Times-Dispatch.

The vote standing published below shows that some of the contestants have reached the two million mark. This shows how easy it is to secure votes if you insist upon your grocer supplying you with the products listed in this campaign, and with a little active effort on your part will place any organization or contestant in the lead.
